Gun violence requires better prevention

In the last few weeks we have seen an increase in violence on our high school students to tackle one of the most nefarious political issues that affect this country: gun violence. Many people believe that there is nothing that can be done about it, given the power that lobby, most notably from the National Rifle Association, have over Congress. Yet, that does not mean there is nothing we need to do to work to reduce it.

In a study published just a few days ago by the Intelligencer reporter John Sommerhof, many other bi-state colleges have witnessed such an increase in gun violence. Although Ken Menzel, of the Illinois Supreme Court, said, “As a judge, I've seen in Illinois and Madison County over the past decade, whenever possible.
